

THE CRAFTSMAN
WORKSHOPS
SYRACUSE, N. Y.

Supplement to Catalogue D.

GUSTAV STICKLEY,
The Craftsman, Syracuse, N. Y.

INTRODUCTION

THIS catalogue is issued merely as a supplement to our Furniture Catalogue D, which contains descriptions, illustrations and prices of the bulk of the cabinet work produced in THE CRAFTSMAN WORKSHOPS. The pieces shown in this book are from new designs which have been made since the publication of the main furniture catalogue. Most of them are in the well-known CRAFTSMAN style, simple, massive, roomy pieces of furniture, designed for comfort, and so solidly built that they will last for generations,—the furniture that has made a name and a place for itself too prominent to need further description. Two new departures have been made, however, among these later products of THE CRAFTSMAN WORKSHOPS, and both are in the direction of somewhat lighter, although just as reliable, construction. Some of the pieces are built after our familiar models, but on rather lighter lines, so that they are easier to handle and also are somewhat less expensive. These pieces are as handsome and as durable as the more massive furniture, but are suited to smaller rooms. The new pieces differ in form from the broad, low, solid models that have hitherto characterized all the CRAFTSMAN furniture. They are built on more slender lines, tall, graceful, and showing an effect of quaint refinement. The use of light spindles instead of the broad bars in the backs of chairs and settles gives an effect that is rather more ornate than that of the heavier pieces, although it is in reality quite as structural and simple. The wood used in all the new pieces is the famous CRAFTSMAN Fumed Oak, and the accessories of CRAFTSMAN Canvas, CRAFTSMAN Hard or Soft Leather, or CRAFTSMAN Sheepskin, used as seat covers, cushions, etc., are the same as described in Furniture Catalogue D. All the metal-work, such as locks, keys, pulls, and escutcheons, is hand-wrought in THE CRAFTSMAN WORKSHOPS, and is of the brass or copper which shows the richness of color obtained by our peculiar process of firing, or of iron in our soft “armor-bright” finish. Another novelty shown in this supplement is a group of pieces for the use of children, so built that they will give delight to generation after generation of little ones. Some of the sturdy little chairs and tables are shown in Catalogue D, but we illustrate here additional pieces enough to completely furnish a child’s room.
